

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

"Wiped Off Statute Books"

THE CAPITOL SCANDAL

Typhoid to Teachers; Minimum Salary $40 and $50—Trolley Franchise Passed House.

Harrisburg, May 1.—The members of the Legislature who have been so busy during this session enacting laws for which the people have been clamoring, took time out to pass a law that will benefit themselves. The bill increasing the salary of the Members and Senators of the Legislature passed the House finally with a vote of 105 to 57, or more than a constitutional majority. Under its provisions the compensation of the legislators will be $125 a month, or $3,000 for the two-year term in the House, and $4,000 for the four-year term in the Senate. The measure has passed the Senate and now goes to the Governor. Of course, it does not apply in the present Legislature.

The bill prohibiting buying, selling, or wearing for adornment, any Pennsylvania wild bird, or part thereof, was passed finally by the House. This bill was once defeated and then reconsidered and postponed.

The compensation of borough and township auditors was fixed at $3 a day by a bill that passed finally in the Senate.

Governor Stuart signed several bills of importance, among them: Appropriating $30,000 for furnishing three new buildings recently completed at the Warren State Hospital for the insane. Amending the borough sewerage system act of May 15, 1893, by providing that the burgesses and council of a borough may construct such systems as they deem fit, without petition from the property owners affected.

Governor Stuart is convinced that the Capitol investigation Committee has revealed enough evidence to justify action. He will see that Attorney General Todd begins suits. From a reliable source it has been learned that the members of the commission are convinced that it has been demonstrated that the charges upon which criminal action may be brought are as follows:

Substitution of inferior materials in violation of specifications; overcharging the state for materials; the value of which it was stipulated was to be fixed by the market price, as well as charging these same prices for articles which were by no means what they were represented to be; conspiracy in the preparation of specifications and the awarding of contracts; falsification of accounts and methods which would tend to deceive state officials in the making of payments for contracts and commissions.

It is not likely that anything in the future of proceedings will be taken until the final report has been submitted. It is not within the jurisdiction of the committee to say what action might follow as a result of the contents of their report, as the commission is a legislative and not a prosecuting body.

Whether or not civil proceedings can be brought is a question, but it is expected that Attorney Scarlett will develop evidence which will warrant proceedings against five or six persons who were mixed up in the capitol contracts, and the awards in what is declared to be a criminal manner. It is also believed that he will furnish unquestionable reasons for the state's suing certain firms and individuals for the recovery of money they receive.

Governor Stuart today signed the Hapgood bill repealing the Salus-Grady "press muzzler." In attaching his signature to the measure wiping the muzzler from the statutes Governor Stuart made no comment. It was due to Mr. Hapgood's energy and watchfulness that the repealing bill has advanced rapidly and was well cared for at every stage of its passage.

Of interest to all Philadelphians was the action of the Senate early in the day in passing finally the Elissner bill applying to the proposed parkway in that city. There was no opposition to the measure and it received the full vote of the Senators present.

Before completing its morning session the House paid a compliment to the public school teachers of the state by passing finally the Snyder bill increasing the minimum salaries to $40 and $50 a month. For teachers who have had two years' experience and hold professional, permanent or normal school certificates, the bill provides a minimum salary of $50, while a minimum salary of $40 is established for all teachers holding certificates of a less grade than those eligible to the $50 a month class. The proposed increase in salaries is made conditional on the state increasing the general appropriation for public schools.

A feature of the afternoon session of the House was the defeat of the Scott bill which aimed to correct abuses in the system of letting contracts in Philadelphia.

The Senate bill creating a separate Orphans' Court for Fayette county, was passed finally by the House and sent to the Governor.

The Trolley Franchise bill, requiring trolley companies to secure local franchises before applying for state charters passed finally by a vote of 129 to 52 and sent to the Senate.

Mrs. Jacob S. Otto. Mary Elizabeth, wife of Jacob S. Otto, died in Altoona on Wednesday, April 24, 1907, aged 55 years, seven months and 12 days.

Deceased was a daughter of Solomon and Catharine Furry Wyon, formerly of Morrison's Cove, and is survived by her husband and one son, Elliott Garfield; also four brothers and three sisters: Albert F. and Elmer, of Indianapolis, Ind.; John of Clarke, S. D.; Charles of Altoona; Martha, wife of Ex-Sheriff David Price of Bedford; Ella, wife of M. L. Snyder of Maria, and Loreta, wife of A. J. Snoberger of Johnstown.

The deceased spent her childhood in Morrison's Cove. When married she and her husband lived for a number of years in Altoona where Mr. Otto worked in the shops. A few years ago they purchased her old homestead, but in order to be with their only child they moved to Pittsburgh about a year ago; but on account of her failing health they concluded to make their future home at Osterburg. Her body was brought to Osterburg, where funeral services were held at the home of Mr. Otto's brother, H. P. Otto, at 10:30 a. m., Saturday, the 27th. Interment in the Lutheran cemetery at Osterburg. A friend.

Abram Manges was born in Napier township on April 22, 1842, and died in Johnstown on Thursday, April 25, aged 65 years and three days, after an illness of eleven months from Bright's disease. He remained in this county until the Civil War broke out, when he enlisted in Co. H, 14th Reg. Pa. Vol., and served three months, re-enlisted in Co. B, 12th U. S. Infantry and served throughout the war. Wounded at the battle of Gaines' Hill, he was being conveyed to the hospital when he was taken prisoner. He was confined to Andersonville prison for seven months; transferred to Macon and finally removed to Savannah, where he was exchanged after 15 months' captivity; honorably discharged April 22, 1865. After his marriage to Miss Adelia Campbell he returned to this county for several years, later removing to Johnstown. He leaves his wife and five children. Interment was made in Johnstown Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Samuel Gardner. Mrs. Samuel Gardner died at her home in Hyndman on Friday, April 26, after an illness of several weeks, aged 71 years. She was much loved by all who knew her, a faithful wife and a good neighbor. Her husband, one sister, Mrs. John Evans of near Hyndman, and a brother, Mr. Moser of Somerset county, survive. Funeral services were held in the United Evangelical church, of which she was a member, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. D. J. Hershberger. Interment in the Hyndman cemetery.

TAFT IN OHIO

President's Remark During Harriman Controversy

WILL PREJUDICE JUSTICE

End of Central American War—Arrears Caused Incompetent Administration of Commissioner Allen.

Washington, D. C., May 1.—Secretary Taft has gone to Ohio to personally take up the fight against the machine wing of the Republican organization. He is up against a hard formation and the situation has been complicated by the fact that the President has aroused the animosity of the labor union element by his remarks during the Harriman controversy in lumping Harriman, Eugene Debs and Moyer and Hayward, the accused murderers of Governor Stuenkel of Idaho, in the same category as "undesirable citizens." The labor element holds that as Moyer and Hayward are about to be brought to trial for murder, the President's remarks will have the effect of prejudicing justice against the accused; therefore labor unions in various quarters have entered strenuous protests and are preparing to inject themselves into the fight in Ohio and to take an active part in the general campaign as anti-Roosevelt bodies, more with a desire to gratify a personal desire for vengeance than for the principle involved.

Treaty of Peace

Word has been received at the State Department of the signing at Amapala of a treaty of peace between Nicaragua and Salvador. This marks the end of the present Central American war, and the treaty provides for a general peace conference of the Central American republics in the near future that it is thought will insure the continuance of peace in that region for years to come. The President has received a congratulatory telegram from President Zelaya of Nicaragua thanking him for the part he had personally taken in bringing about the cessation of hostilities. The peace pact containing the provision for a general peace conference is the same in effect as that signed on the Marblehead about a year ago, but which was never put into effect owing to the strained relations between the Central American countries at the time. Now that the pressure has been relieved by a fight, the air is clearer and it is thought that the conference will be held with some chance of success.

Patent Commissioner Resigns

Patent Commissioner Frederick I. Allen has resigned from the important post he has held under the Interior Department for the past six years and will follow the example of some of his predecessors in office and return to the practice of law. Commissioner Allen has not had an altogether tranquil time in his long administration. The office under his care fell dreadfully into arrears of work and there were many criticisms of his administration. A good many influences were at work to oust him from his job but it took a good deal of time and much effort to pry him loose from such a good official salary. His successor has not yet been named, but quite possibly it will be Assistant Commissioner Moore. What is needed in the office above all things now is a prompt and effective business administration to clear up the long list of arrears with which the office has been struggling for some years past and for which Commissioner Allen's incompetent administration is at fault.

Of Interest to Scientists

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, which has just come under the administration of a new secretary in the person of Charles D. Walcott, former Director of the Geological Survey, has made a move that will be of interest to scientists all over the world. It has constituted itself a sort of clearing house for the major scientific societies, chief among them the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the National Academy of Science. These two important institutions will hereafter have their permanent headquarters in the Smithsonian building and will transact through it their mass of correspondence with the rest of the scientific world. It is a courtesy that has been accepted with thanks by both bodies and will tend to make the Smithsonian more than ever the clearing house for the scientific work of the whole country.

A New Assistant

A new board of food standards has been established in the Department of Agriculture, composed of Dr. H. H. Wiley, chief chemist of the department; George McCabe, solicitor of the department, and Dr. F. L. Dunlap, who has been brought to Washington from the University of Michigan for the purpose of acting as chief assistant to Dr. Wiley. This board, under the direction of Secretary Wilson, will pass on all questions of law and fact connected with the food standards established under the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Charles Cessna Appointed

Charles Cessna, who for some time has been in the employ of the Bedford County Telephone Company, has been appointed lineman for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Mr. Cessna is equal to the duties of his new position and The Gazette wishes him well in the undertaking.

KILLED INSTANTLY

John C. Long Fatally Injured at Hollidaysburg.

Saturday afternoon, April 27, John C. Long, a native of Salemville, met with a fatal accident in the P. R. R. car shops at Hollidaysburg. Mr. Long, who is a car inspector, was engaged in examining the air brakes under a car, a new duty which he was performing in anticipation of promotion to that line of work. The air came on suddenly, and the piston rod flew out, striking Mr. Long in the back of the head and crushing out his life with instantaneous force.

John C. Long was a son of G. C. Long of Salemville and was aged 28 years and 11 days. He was graduated from the Lock Haven State Normal School and afterwards taught in this county. Mr. Long was fond of athletic pursuits and was a clever amateur base ball player. He was the tuba player in the Friendship band of Frankstown, where he resided, and was also a member of Hollidaysburg Lodge No. 119, I. O. O. F. His immediate survivors are a wife and child. He is also survived by his parents, a brother, Homer Long of Hollidaysburg, and a sister, Miss Clara Long, assistant principal of the Garfield school, Altoona.

Funeral services were held in the Geesytown Lutheran church Monday afternoon; interment in the cemetery adjoining.

Mrs. Annie Burkett

Mrs. Annie Burkett, whose maiden name was Otto, was a daughter of Mathias and Barbara Otto and was born near St. Clairsville on June 12, 1863. She died April 26, 1907, of cancer.

She is survived by five brothers and two sisters: William F. Otto of Windber, Albert F. and Harry P. of Osterburg, Jacob S. and G. W. of Altoona; Mrs. Mark Kegarsie of South Dakota, and Mrs. Daniel Berkheimer of Salemville.

Deceased was a member of the Lutheran church, having joined in Pittsburgh. The funeral service was conducted in the St. Clairsville Lutheran church by Rev. J. H. Diehl.

Thomas T. Barley

Thomas T. Barley, B. & O. watchman at the Oldtown road crossing, Cumberland, died very suddenly Sunday, April 28, aged 64 years and six months. Mr. Barley was born in this county but has lived in Cumberland for 40 years. About 38 years ago he was married to Catharine Weber of New Baltimore, who passed away two years ago. He had been in the employ of the B. & O. for 25 years. Deceased is survived by three sons, all residing in Cumberland. Mr. Barley was a brother-in-law of Henry F. Weber of near Bedford. Funeral services were held in St. Patrick's church Tuesday morning; interment at Cumberland.

Mrs. Charles Thompson

Mrs. Anna Bell, wife of Charles Thompson, died at her home on East Pitt street at midnight, Saturday, April 27, after an illness of two days, at the age of 32 years, 10 months and 19 days. She was a daughter of Levi and Mary Cook (now Mrs. Mary J. Corle of this place) and was born in Meyersdale on June 8, 1874. On October 12, 1897, she was united in marriage to Charles Thompson and for several years resided in Meyersdale. She leaves her husband, a daughter, Elizabeth, and a baby girl a week old; also her mother, two brothers, Theodore Cook of Cumberland and James of Marshall, Ill., and a half-sister, Beattie Corle, of Bedford.

Mrs. Thompson was a member of the Methodist church until her marriage, when she united with the Reformed church. She was a sincere Christian, true in her friendships, a loyal and faithful wife and mother. Funeral services were held at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. A. T. G. Apple, her pastor, assisted by Rev. F. W. Biddle of the M. E. church. Interment in the Bedford cemetery.

Mrs. Mary J. Elbin

Mary J. Elbin, widow of Otho Elbin, died at the home of her son, John R., in Mann township on Sunday, April 28, aged 77 years and 29 days. Her husband died about 10 years ago. She leaves four sons and two daughters: Amos K., Henry B., William and John R., of Artemas; Mrs. White of Cumberland and Mrs. James Price of Piney Grove, Md.; also 50 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. Her funeral was held on Monday at the Fairview church, conducted by Rev. J. H. Barney, assisted by Rev. John Bennett.

Isaac Ling

Isaac Ling, Civil War veteran, died at Imier on Tuesday, April 30, aged 61 years, eight months and 13 days. He was a son of John and Mary Collier Imier and was born August 17, 1845. On December 15, 1870, he was married to Miss Mary Imier, who, with seven children, survives: Hulda, wife of Jacob Feathers of Imier; Amanda, wife of Lewis Delther of Somer's Point, N. J.; Annie, wife of William H. Bloom of Spring Meadow; John of Claysburg, Charles of Gibsonburg, O.; Harry L., of Toledo, O., and William B. at home, and ten grandchildren.

Mr. Ling served three years in the Civil War in Co. K, 55th Reg. Pa. Vol. Funeral services were held at Imier at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, conducted by Rev. J. H. Diehl, assisted by Rev. J. W. Zehring.

Deeds, mortgages, notes, receipts, notices, for-rent and for-sale cards at this office.

AROUND THE WORLD

The Golden Age of Art—Greek Temples and Theatres—The Parthenon by Moonlight.

It was a cold, stormy morning when our ship steamed into Phalaron bay and in the enfolding crescent of historic hills found a haven beyond the reach of the elements. To the right of our position a range of mountains sprung up from the sea and linked arms with others in a tumult of magnificent disorder; all of them turbaned with snow behind veils of blue. To the left a rocky promontory reached out into the water after the similitude of a quail piled high with white boxes that were the homes and business houses of the little city by the sea. In the foreground a great basin held in its emerald lap the homes of a busy people, and as the surf rose and fell on the low, receding shore an engine and train of cars ran swiftly along like a needle sewing lace on a garment of green; a broad thoroughfare ran from the water's edge across the plain and disappeared behind the hills. But more striking than any other feature of the landscape was the hill that rose boldly in the foreground far inland and the noble ruin that crowned its summit. Upon it every glass was trained and every mind intent, for it was the splendid remnant of a glory that illuminated a world and gave to history its brightest pages—that grand old veteran, that incomparable survivor of the centuries, the Acropolis or Athens.

We were in Greece, the little water-gashed, mountain ribbed country that lies upon the foot of Europe like a nail upon her toe, and yet a country that has produced more great men in science, literature and art than any other since the dawn of time. Shivering in the cold wind on the shore, we stood for a few moments in silence and tried to reconcile the steam of a passing train with the marble of the past, and then drove four miles over a well-paved carriage road to Athens. Every knoll and vale, every Greek-lettered house, every passing native was the parent, mentally, of a surprise or a reflection—the painful reflection that those noisy drivers, that current of uncouth pedestrians, were the descendants of men who spoke with the tongues of angels.

It was with a thrill of reverent awe that we turned our eyes upward from the vermin that infested the damp and dingy streets to the great rock that rose like ancient Greece herself above the groundling mercenaries and beggars of the present degenerate race, and to its climax of sculptured art, the center of its radiations of glory; the tomb, too, alas! of its splendid achievements—the Parthenon. In the shadow of its marble columns, far up above the din and cry of unseemly commerce, the blue sky, the same unchanged canopy that arched above the patriots and scholars of the olden time, there is no fitter spot on earth to realize the immensity of man and the providence of God—the sic transit gloria mundi of all things here below.

I shall not attempt a description of the most impressive monument of ancient art—it would take a volume to tell the story of its construction and of the great scenes enacted within it. Modern iconoclasm has despoiled it of its statues and carried them away to vaults of museums, where they stand in mute memory of a paradise lost, and others have been destroyed by ruthless barbarians who knew them only as pearls are known to swine. Not one is left, and scarcely a frieze, the highest level ever attained by plastic art, remains to chasten the dull front of its lofty portals. All are gone, and only the imperishable, immovable frame of the fabric has withstood the dismantling crows of the thieves of time. The pillars and lintels of the Parthenon are yellow with age, but are good for thousands of years yet against corrosion and will no doubt withstand, to the end of time, any destroying force except earthquake and dynamite. The whole surface of the mountain is a confusion of wrecked marble columns, enough of them to build many blocks of costly mansions could they be used for such a purpose.

There are numerous guards on the Acropolis who keep their eyes upon the tourist lest he attempt to chip a souvenir from a column or a step. An audacious member of our party lagged behind and, when he supposed no one could see his depredations, hammered a broken marble monolith and put the result in his pocket. No sooner had he done so than a guard appeared from his hiding and arrested him for his vandalism. When arraigned in court the trembling offender pleaded his innocence of intentional violation of the law and urged in his favor that there were no prohibitory notices to warn against such acts. He was discharged, but as he turned to go an officer gave him a kick from behind. When he protested against such treatment the officer reasoned that he had a right to administer the kick, as there was no prohibitory sign on his back. The incident was worthy of the day of Diogenes and was a wholesome lesson to the souvenir fiend.

The outlook from the Acropolis is very fine. The eye is ravished on every hand with views as splendid as the world affords. The white dome of Mount Hymettus, famed for its honey and its muses, rises sublime and majestic on the east. A little farther to the northeast is Pentelicon with its quarries of marble from which two cities have been built, and beyond it, is Marathon, where one of the world's decisive battles was fought. Lycabettus ascends abruptly out of the heart of the city, higher than the Acropolis itself, and is surrounded by a white convent that glitters like a crown; the city of Corinth is barely visible in the blue haze beyond the hills. To the west the plains of Attica, green with growing crops, sweep gracefully to the sea; to the southeast the harbor of Piræus, which once held the fine navies of ancient Greece, is now filled with the fleets of commerce. Salamis bay, esteemed for the defeat of Xerxes there, is in plain view; the blue Aegean stretches far away to the southern horizon; and a mable city of 150,000 souls swings in the hammocks of the valleys at our feet.

At the base of the Acropolis hill is the theater of Dionysius, founded 500 years, B. C., the largest resort of that character of ancient Greece. It is in the form of an amphitheater, with the stage and orchestra reservation on level marble floors and the seats in semicircular tiers on the hillside. According to the historian this theater accommodated no less than 30,000 spectators. It had no galleries and no roof, and when a rain blew up during a performance the audience and players would retire to a spacious shelter erected for the purpose near by. Several hundred of the marble seats are still in a good state of preservation. They are provided with marble backs and evidently constituted the dress circle. The dignitaries had specially reserved seats, more elegant than the rest, on which their names were cut. The thousands of holders of 50-cent tickets must have carried cushions with them, otherwise they could never have gone to sleep during the performance. This theater, though erected 500 years, B. C., was only discovered by excavators fifty years ago. Another resort, the Odeon of Herodotus Atticus, has recently been exhumed at the base of the Acropolis. At both places the season was closed during our visit and there was nothing doing except when a flock of tourists entered, in charge of a guide, like a lot of chicks about a clucking hen, receiving without question the morsels of instruction doled out to them with great pomposity and affectation.

Through the forty-seven preachers on board the ship I learned that there was a place in Athens known as Mars Hill and that the apostle Paul once delivered a sermon there. For several days prior to our arrival there, wherever—on deck, in cabin or in meditation over the railing—a preacher was in sight, he invariably had his Bible open at the seventeenth chapter of Acts. No Acropolis or theater for them; the Acropolis was pre-eminent and all-important.

Now Paul was an intense man, with an eye single to one great purpose. Unlike Christ, who had a keen appreciation for the beauties of both nature and art, he rarely used illustrations, and walked among the lilies of the field unconscious of their beauty or that they might fill point a moral or adorn a sermon. For several days he was surrounded by the finest production of the golden age of art, and yet never saw in the peerless Acropolis aught but the dwelling place of idols, nor in the graceful statue of the street or the comely col-

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I can cure all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. umus of the temples anything worthy of comment. Christ and Him crucified was the burden of his mind and of every deliverance. It was a great pleasure to stand with the preachers on the crest of Mars Hill and hear the reading of the biblical references to Paul's visit to Athens. I wished with all my heart that I could have felt the thrill of emotion experienced by those reverend and worthy gentlemen as they stood in spirit with the apostle that day and read the story of his wonderful sermon on the unknown God. I stood with them again in the old market-place where Paul disputed daily with those who would meet him in argument; but while the other divines were discussing the scripture apropos to the place, I stole away to examine an old water clock that marked time for the Athenians and to which Paul doubtless often referred when he wished to cut short his religious discussion for a hot lunch at midday.

The temple of Jupiter Olympus is a most magnificent ruin. Originally this temple possessed more than 100 marble columns, each about sixty feet high and four feet in diameter, arranged in double rows of twenty each on the sides and triple rows of eight each at the ends. Only fifteen of these great columns remain, and of these twelve are standing, like solemn sentinels on duty, and three, tired of their long service, have fallen and are prone upon the ground in broken sections. The size of the temple was 353 by 134 feet and was exceeded only by that of Diana at Ephesus.

The best preserved of all the old edifices is the Theseum, which retains its original form and parts, with the exception of its roofs, friezes and contents. The golden yellow columns, the dignified and solemn pose of the structure, with the stain of age upon its venerable front, presents an impressive picture to one who delights in such antiquities.

Within a stone's throw from the Theseum is the old Hill of the Pryx, an artificial area 395 by 212 feet, where the Athenians assembled for public purposes. It was their city auditorium. My, but those people delighted in fresh air! From a rock, which is still preserved there, Demosthenes thundered his philippics and all the orators of the nation played upon the passions of the people.

We were shown, among other interesting places, the "exact spot" where Diogenes conducted a department store in a tub, and if the locality be not apocryphal, it was there that he uttered the fine philosophy, "If you please, sir, get out of my light," in answer to a well-meaning passerby who inquired if he could help him in any way.

And lo, the Stadium! Who has not heard of the Olympic games? All the literature of Greece has something to say of them and it was, perhaps, to these St. Paul alluded when he advised the early Christians to throw aside every weight and run the race before them with patience, surrounded as they were by a great crowd of spectators. The old course was erected 350 B. C., in a natural hollow, where it was only necessary to erect seats in tiers against the hills or three sides without artificial supports.

It went down in the collapse of all the best these was in Greece and remained under the debris until a few years ago, when a rich citizen of Alexandria rebuilt it on the exact former location and in the same splendid style, at a cost of $500,000. The amphitheater is of white marble and will seat 60,000 persons. The length of the race course is 1340 feet and the whole Stadium, rehabilitated and resplendent in shining marble, is a charming feature of modern Greece and one in which she approximates her former excellence. While I was leaving the marble seats and running against time on the race course, a demonstration broke loose among a party of Canadians. The guide had announced that the winner of the chief prize in last year's international contests here was one of their countrymen.

There are many interesting places in Athens. I have mentioned only the most prominent. It is really an outrage to try to compress a description of Athens into a few short columns. What a history it has! How inexhaustible the stories of its struggles to the light, of its heroism, its superb and enduring achievements in every field of refined endeavor. In poetry Homer has never been surpassed; in history there is a greater Macaulay in Herodotus; Solon and Lycurgus are still the world's greatest law-givers; Demosthenes, by general consent, holds the palm of superiority in forensic eloquence; Aristotle was the first great mathematician. Socrates and Plato are supreme in the realm of philosophy; Pericles in statesmanship. Militaries in war, Sophocles and Aristophanes in the drama. There is no other such record; there is no other such list of immortals.

Modern Athens, like the first, is built of marble and this is not surprising when it is known that marble is so plentiful that the streets are paved and curbed with it, and many of the inhabitants have marble hearts. The streets are wider than those of most southern European cities, and cleaner. The people are chaste, and beggars, thank the Lord, are scarce. The old town around the Acropolis is filthy and the natives are repulsive; but the new town is made up of splendid stores and a cultured, intelligent and ambitious class of citizens. The national dress, as worn by the peasants and soldiers, is much like that of the Highland Scotch, and is really quite attractive. The natives of the city have, as a rule, discarded their former costumes and adopted the western style of dress.

The fire of their ancestors is not dead in the breasts of these plucky Greeks. Listen! In this little kingdom, not much larger than a beefsteak, there are 2,500 schools and numerous colleges. Listen again! There is one university in Athens with 3,000 students and a library of 100,000—but, alas! not a football team nor a college yell. There is a brilliant future before these doctry mountaineers, if they will only part company with the goat; it is a fact—no man and no race of people can ever amount to much who have anything to do with the goat or the donkey.

The people believe in the Greek church, a religion that prevails in Russia and is dominated by a hierarchy there. King George is a democratic gentleman, liberal and progressive, and is loved by his subjects; he is a substantial friend to all reforms and encourages the industrial enterprises. This is explained by the fact that he is neither an oriental nor a Latin.

So much for Greece, her plucky people and her ruins. Before returning to the boat at the end of a short day in this most attractive place so far in our tour, I waited with a company until nightfall for a view of the Acropolis by moonlight. From the crest of Mars Hill we saw the western skies stained crimson and orange by the setting sun, and its last rays fell upon the ruins like the kiss of a parent upon the forehead of a child that was dead. And then the outlines of the Parthenon grew dimmer and dimmer in the gloaming and changed from pale to livid against the gray sky, until it seemed like an ethereal sepulchre of some grandee of mythology.

But just when night was in the act of throwing her sable mantle upon the ruins, as she has done for 2,000 years and more, the moon rose and turned her face full and fair upon the scene, and in the track of the long shadows night crouched and hid herself. Along the great beams a current of silver ran and a flood of mellow splendor poured upon the stately pillars and the marble floors. A grand, gloomy and peculiar picture it was, so shrouded in its mystic sheen, that I could almost see the forms of the ghosts of history flitting from niches to dark corners in the old house poised so sublimely in mid-air, so far removed from the revels of men, so convenient a resort for the spirits of the sky. The Parthenon by moonlight—who, having seen it, can ever forget it?

The glory of Greece is her ruins.

RIGHT BREATHING CURES CATARRH

Simple Way to Kill Catarrhal Germs in Nose, Throat and Lungs.

The only natural and common sense method known for the cure of catarrhal troubles is Hy-o-mei. It is breathed through an ingenious pocket inhaler, so that its medicated air reaches the most remote air-cells of the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, soothing the irritated mucous membrane, and restoring a healthy condition.

Hy-o-mei goes right to the spot where the catarrhal germs are present in the nose, throat and lungs and destroys the germs so that perfect health is soon restored.

A complete Hy-o-mei outfit with inhaler costs but $1.00 and is sold by F. W. Jordan under guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy gives satisfaction. Apr 26-2t.

"Here's to your health and happiness"—DeWitt's Little Early Risers—famous little pills. Nasty, sick headache or biliousness may come on any time; the cure is an Early Riser. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

If any one has any doubt as to the virtue of Foley's Kidney Cure, they need only to refer to Mr. Alvin H. Stimpson of Willimantic, Conn., who, after almost losing hope of recovery, on account of the failure of so many remedies, finally tried Foley's Kidney Cure, which he says was "just the thing" for him, as four bottles cured him completely. He is now entirely well and free from all the suffering incident to acute kidney trouble. Ed. D. Heckerman.

It is Cruel to the Child

The practice of "forcing" a young child's musical talents, Moritz Rosenthal, the well-known pianist, unhesitatingly condemns. "It is a great injustice to the public to foist a child's undeveloped talents upon him, but it is a far greater injustice to the child. There is nothing so inherently poetic as an imaginative child, and one who is musically inclined is apt to be imaginative. If you put him upon the stage before he has attained his mental equilibrium you are running the danger of making him self-conscious, thetic, and of stunting in him the development of a quality which as a musician he is lost without. But, Gott, sie dankt, the custom is a passing one."—From "Little Glimpses of Famous Musicians," by C. F. Peters in The Bohemian for May.

IT'S THE SKIN, NOT THE BLOOD

Costly Error of Treatment of Skin Diseases by Internal Nostrums When the Surface Alone Should be Healed.

If you slash your finger do you drink liniment to cure it? No, you apply the lotion to the wound, yet people are treating skin diseases constantly by dosing the stomach.

Until a few weeks ago many doctors thought that skin diseases originated with the blood. But the application of the germ theory proves that skin diseases are caused by germs which lodge in the skin.

To cure the skin direct, through the skin, Dr. Decatur D. Dennis compounded oil of wintergreen and other remedial agents into a liquid called D. D. D. Prescription. He gave this to his patients and found that the eczema germs were eradicated while the healthy skin was not injured at all.

Later Dr. Dennis was prevailed upon to allow a private company in Chicago to put this remedy in bottles. While Dr. Dennis has no direct connection with the company selling the prescription he endorsed the remedy and sanctioned the sale of D. D. D. through drug stores.

Great credit is due to physicians who recommend this remedy—and there are many such physicians—when they can make so much larger fees by writing out their own prescriptions.

We vouch for D. D. D. Prescription and D. D. D. soap and recommend these to all sufferers from skin diseases. F. W. Jordan, Bedford, Pa.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the disease being so insidious that it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent the development of fatal disease if taken in time. Ed. D. Heckerman.

FIRST LECTURE

It has oftentimes happened that an individual has roamed the entire world, and consumed years in unavailing pursuit of that which, on his return, he found beneath the lintel and beside the hearth-stone of his own childhood's home.

Men have, with unrestful perseverance, searched to the earth's remotest bound for some coveted object and, wearied by fruitless effort, have returned from their wanderings, venting their curi bono of disappointment, to proclaim their eureka on the spot where their heads were rocked in the cradles of their infancy.

Human hearts have launched their argosies of hope on the ocean of life, and have discovered the "golden fleece" of their desire at the harbor from whence they embarked.

With the pertinacity of the sleuth-hound after its prey, men, in the pursuit of what to them seemed happiness, have

Compassed Nature, far and near;
On mountain wild, in desert drear;
Mid polar snows, on burning sands,
And charming scenes of tropic lands;
Traversed the trackless ocean o'er;
Stood on Italia's classic shore;
On isles where birds, in plumage gay,
Sport mid the trees the livelong day;
In mines of gems; on coral strands;
Where pearls lie hid in golden sands;
Wandered mid ruined piles, and read
The records of the mighty dead;
Drank at the well of Science; knelt
At Beauty's Shrine; with Power dwelt;
With Reason's torch, on Fancy's wing,
Flew to the utmost echoing
Of "chiming spheres," and, raptured, heard
The music of the seraph world;
Scanned the whole realm—Earth, Sea and Sky;
Dived to the deepest mystery;
Quaffed every cup that wealth could buy,
In hope to find and have discovered it at last, where they might have found it before they started, had they sought for it—just beside them and within their hand's reach.

My audience will have divined, by these brief introductory remarks, that I have intended to suggest that we of Bedford have the proclivities of our race in general, which make us subject to the attractions and delusions of the "distance that lends enchantment to the view," and that our people, in common with people of other localities, are continually making, or desiring to make, pilgrimages to remote regions in this or other lands; to visit scenes of hoary memories, unconscious of what is ever present with us, and are sometimes set to wondering, by interrogatory intimations from strangers, that we have left behind us at home, and have, our lives long, been unconsciously associated with legends, and incidents, and history "marvellous as romance and stranger than fiction."

It is not a peradventure that we, "to the manner born," live amidst and stand over relics of antiquity that, in future years, alien hands may make excavations for.

Our hitherto accessible vocabulary of actual events and traditional incidents, of historic deeds and names, is becoming obliterated by the corroding tooth of time. The land marks are crumbling in the dust of years, or are being removed by the accursed hand of sacrilege. The deep-sunken letters that love inscribed on the cairns, and memorial-stones of the long since dead, are wearing away (alas! many are even now effaced) by the incessant rains, and frosts, and suns of recurring years, and unless some second pious, patient "Old Mortality" shall come to the rescue, the inscriptions, many of which it is not too late to reingrave and restore, will be forever lost. There are graves of the ancient fathers of Bedford that, at this day, are unknown to their descendants, and only one or two lives are standing between the knowledge of the localities and its irretrievable loss, and yet some of those descendants have no solicitude about the matter.

The tomb-stones of Judge Bernard Dougherty; Judge Scott, his son-in-law, Col Terrence Campbell; Mr. Heyden; Mrs. Dunlap (nee Frazer) and many others from the old burying grounds are gone, stolen, and in more than one respectable house in Bedford the turning up of a hearth-stone or a back step would reveal on the under side, varied inscriptions beginning—"Sacred to the memory of."

The blood of worthies of Bedford's early days courses legitimately in the veins of some of the present generation, who have never heard of the relationship and have been surprised as well as gratified, at being informed of it.

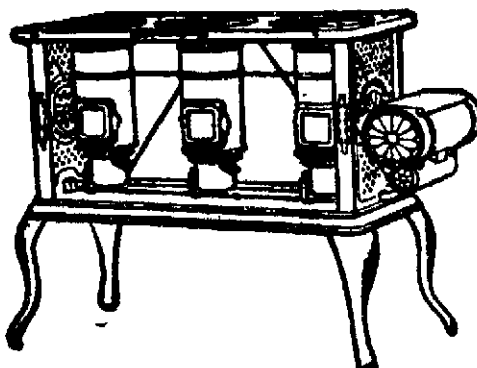

There is a despicable affectation prevalent of the sentiment, that citizens of a republic need no ancestral line. It is the veriest stuff. It is true "worth makes the man, the want of it the fellow," let one's ancestry be what it may, and mere pride of ancestry is contemptible, but the "illustrious son" loses neither prestige nor real worth from the fact that he be descended from illustrious sires.

If to come of good stock enhances the value of "dumb, driven cattle," surely the worthy man is justified in not being indifferent to the fact, if he comes from a worthy race.

Before proceeding further let me say now, that I may not need to allude to it further on, that to none of the old towns of this or any other American commonwealth, does Bedford stand second in genuine worth of the constituents that made up her early citizenship. Her first personnel was drawn, with but few exceptions, from the best English, Irish, Scotch-Irish and German stock.

Bedford has always been considered one of the aristocratic towns of the State as well as of the Province. This

THE RAMBLER HAS THEM ALL SKINNED

The Rambler is a new last just out for men.

Here is a remark of a customer, a few days ago in our store, which exactly fits the case.

After examining all the up to date styles in shoes he said:

"The Rambler has them all skinned"

The Rambler is stylish enough to please the most exacting, and still is a shoe which furnishes complete comfort no matter how great a ramblor you are.

Where Men Bungle

Woman likes to play the "go between" where a man and a maid are concerned. She will endure personal discomfort, risk snapping friendship's ties, and plot and scheme and plunge up to her ears in morasses of mendacity just to bring about an understanding between some particular he and she whom she imagines to be suited in some way to each other. Men bungle this sort of thing.—Lady's Pictorial.

When your food has not been properly digested the entire system is impaired in the same proportion. Your stomach needs help. Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia not only digests what you eat, it tones the stomach and adds strength to the whole body. Makes rich, pure blood. Kodol conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Ink Stains Removed

Ink stains may be removed from carpets while they are still wet by sponging them thoroughly with skimmed milk until the ink has disappeared, after which the spot should be sponged repeatedly with clear, cold water, followed by warm water and rubbed dry with a cloth. Or sponge the stain with a cupful of warm water in which one teaspoonful of oxalic acid has been dissolved, rinsing afterwards with cold water.

Coughs and colds contracted at this season of the year should have immediate attention. Bees Laxative Cough Syrup, contains Honey and Tar and is unequalled for hoarseness, croup and coughs. Pleasant to take; mothers endorse it; children like to take it. Contains no opiates. Moves the bowels. Sold at Irvine's Drug Store.

When your back aches it is almost invariably an indication that something is wrong with your kidneys. Weak, diseased kidneys frequently cause a break down of the entire system. DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills afford prompt relief for weak kidneys, backache, inflammation of the bladder and all urinary troubles. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

BREAKING PLEDGES

It was a boast in the campaign before the November election of 1906 when members of the House and Senate were to be elected that if the Republicans were successful in retaining a majority in the state legislature they would enact a law that would revoke the charters of abandoned railroads.

From the Republican campaign book of 1906, page 37, we quote:

We demand an investigation of the facts as to the abandonment of the construction of competitive railroads by existing corporations and the enactment of such legislation as will enable the state to re-take the franchises so abandoned and any work which may have been done under them and sell the same to an independent and competing railroad company.

Such was the promise, the demand, a few short months ago, but what has come of it? On Monday in the House of Representatives a resolution was presented to place on the calendar a bill to enable the state to resume and sell neglected railway charters—and it was killed by those who had promised it. Only one Democrat voted against the resolution. Many Republicans were absent.

This was a measure—the granting of this privilege to the state—that might have meant new life to Bedford county.

As matters now stand the old South Penn will never be built for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company does not want it built and the "Pennsy" has gained the day.

While the measure was a Republican pledge and was killed in a Republican house it is fair and honorable here to state that the resolution to put it on the calendar was made by Hon. George W. Oster of Bedford county.

The building of the old South Penn would put new blood into the veins of local industries. It would be of more benefit to the county than the building of an automobile thoroughfare. It would open up new channels of industry; the vast deposits of limestone that he almost untouched. This is but one of a number of sources of wealth that would call forth energy and result in much good to the whole county.

But there's another chapter. The yellow posters which invited the citizens of the county to vote for Dr. W. C. Miller for State Senator if they wanted the South Penn built, have not rotted from fences and barns. But Miller did present a bill in the Senate similar to the Oster measure. It was placed in the hands of a Senate committee and there allowed to peacefully rest. Has the Harrisburg environment an influence on men of mature age? "Watchman, what of the night?"

EASTERN STAR BANQUET

Members of Local Organization Enjoy Feast and Festivities.

Bedford Springs Chapter, No. 41, Order of Eastern Star, held a banquet at the Coile House Friday evening of last week. This was the first gathering of the kind since the organization of the local chapter something more than a year ago but it is safe to say that it will not be the last if one may judge by the way in which all enjoyed the occasion. The menu was excellent, and when ample justice had been done to the several courses, worthy Matron, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Sell, toastmistress, after introductory remarks called on S. A. Van Ormer who responded to "The Eastern Star," which was followed by Mrs. Myrtle Broek who spoke on "Our Masonic Brethren." There were a number of responses, impromptu, to the toast "Our Masonic Sisters." The dining room was then cleared and a part of the company enjoyed several hours of dancing, Miss Josephine Smith presiding at the piano, while others engaged in other games in the spacious parlor.

OLD HOME WEEK

Old Home Week will renew old acquaintances and make new ones. Plan to be with us. Drop a line to the Old Home Week committee if you expect to attend the celebration; it will greatly encourage those here who are working for the success of the "big time."

If you have any suggestions to offer toward a program send them along. If you are interested do not be afraid to say so. Talk it up when you get among Bedford county people and you will be helping the cause along.

C. A. Lee Coming

Little Rock, Ark., April 29, '07.
Mr. John R. Jordan,
Bedford, Pa.

Dear Friend:—I have watched The Gazette very closely for the past two months to see just exactly how the boys were getting along with the subscriptions for the home coming.

I feel deeply interested in the good time to come and herewith hand you check for $10 to help the good work along.

Mr. Charles Fauble of Bedford is the only other man here in Little Rock at the present time that I know of, but we are not afraid to let every one know that we came from Bedford and we are pulling just as hard for the success of the boys as if we were in the good old town.

Hoping to be on hand when the good time comes, with best wishes for all, I beg to remain,

Yours truly,

C. A. Lee,
Mgr. Real Estate Dept.,
Southern Trust Co.

ARC LAMPS UP

New System Installed Last Week
Very Satisfactory.

The darkness that has overshadowed Bedford during the past two months is no more; the new arc lamps have been installed and they are very satisfactory.

The Bedford Electric Light Co. now has a plant that is modern and complete. The recent installation of a new 175-horse power boiler in addition to the two large boilers that for years have done service provides ample power to carry the present load and more.

Manager Brice deserves much credit for having secured improvement after improvement until the present equipment is second to none in towns the size of Bedford. The lamp at the monument sends to the window of The Gazette office more light by 40 candles than did the direct current lamp which formerly occupied the same position.

$1,200 Damages

On Monday the jury that sat in the case of Dr. Simon H. Gump against the Bedford County Telephone Company brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, allowing him $1,200 damages for injuries received from becoming entangled in the wires of an old line in Weber lane north of Bedford. The suit was brought for $10,000.

George Wagner Hurt

On Tuesday of this week George Wagner was injured while removing poles from an abandoned line of the Electric Light Company near Bedford Springs. He had chopped off a pole which in falling struck the fence which caused it to change its course. It knocked Mr. Wagner into the run and fell on him. Had it not been for the aid of his associates he would have drowned. He was considerably bruised and several teeth were knocked out.

Bedford First

Our venerable and respected townsman, Hon. William P. Schell, and his estimable daughter, Miss Nannie, who spent the winter in Minneapolis, Minn., returned to Bedford a few days ago. Though they had a delightful trip and visited many cities Bedford still stands first in Mr. Schell's opinion.

"Bedford in Ye Olden Time"

Bedford in Ye Olden Time is the title of two lectures delivered in the court house at Bedford more than 20 years ago by the late Dr. Charles N. Hickok in the interest of the Bedford Cemetery Association. The lectures were published in The Gazette at the time and are reproduced, by request, prior to the great Home Coming event in August. The first installment appears on page three. Don't fail to read these lectures.

RAY'S HILL LODGE, I. O. O. F.

Members Initiated and Officers Installed—Public Meeting.

Last Saturday night, after a number of members were initiated into Ray's Hill Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the officers had been duly installed, a public meeting was held, the object being to institute a lodge of Rebekahs.

A delegation from Everett and Woodbury and several members from Bedford were in attendance. There were about 40 ladies present.

Addresses were made by District Deputy Brown of Woodbury, D. D. elect J. R. Irvine of Bedford, D. D. Pres. of Encampment W. H. Clouse of Woodbury and O. W. Smith of Bedford. About 100 attended the banquet which was held after the meeting.

Mrs. Fannie Cypher

Mrs. Fannie Cypher, for some years a resident of Bedford, died at the Nason Sanatorium at Roaring Spring on Wednesday, April 25, aged 67 years. She had been ill for several months and some time ago was taken to Martinsburg, entering the hospital on April 13. Her remains were taken to the home of her brother-in-law, Henry Camerger, at Martinsburg, where funeral services were held. Interment was made at Springhope. Mrs. Cypher attended the Lutheran church while she resided here.

BEDFORD IN YE OLDEN TIME

must be conceded; but she is neither shoddy nor snobbish. She has the true base of solidity. She may lack enterprise, so called, but she is substantial and conservative. Her social status has ever been of the highest type. Her citizens are not millionaires but she has not a single beggar. Her citizens are generally in easy circumstances, and the poorest of them maintain "the glorious privilege of being independent," that the poet Burns so eloquently portrays. If perchance any suffer from want, or sorrow, there are warm hearts and willing hands ever ready spontaneously to give relief. Such was "Bedford in ye olden time." Such is she now. May God vouchsafe to her this heritage forever.

The subject of the paper I have the honor to lay before you, as announced—Bedford in Ye Olden Time—is one, not only of local association, but is widespread in its connections as the commonwealth, and is interwoven, in a greater or less degree, with the history of the entire British colonies.

We all deprecate apologies for non-performance of duty, yet knowing the kindness of my audience I may crave their pardon, when I tell them that illness, since my engagement, has robbed me of many days that I had intended devoting to the better classification of my subject. If then you, my long-time friends, will listen to a rambling, ill-connected chat on old-time Bedford,—that is Bedford from 1751 to 1846,—and, by courtesy, accept it as a lecture, I shall be grateful.

In order to come to our main subject, viz: "The old town" and the "King's House," we must anticipate a few years and speak in brief of Bedford county, for the town, by its present name, is five years older than the county, and gave the county its name, and as Raystown, it is at least twenty years its senior.

The county of Bedford was created March 9, 1771, by act of the general assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania, entitled "an act for erecting a part of the county of Cumberland into a separate county." This was in the eleventh year of the reign of King George III of England.

Robert McCrea, George Woods, William Miller, Robert Moore and William Elliott, were appointed by the king "to run, mark out and distinguish the lines between the new county and Cumberland, from which it was cut off." Some of these names and others with them associated we shall have occasion to mention again, as intimately connected with the early history of our town. Bedford county, at its creation, was a state domain in itself, extending as it did from the Great Cove, or Tuscarora Mountain and the west branch of the Susquehanna, on the east, to the Virginia and Ohio lines on the west, and from the Virginia and Maryland lines on the south to almost the latitudinal center of the Province on the north. This area was gradually restricted by the erection of Northumberland county, in 1772; Westmoreland, in 1773; Huntingdon, in 1787; Somerset, in 1795; Cambria, in 1804; Blair, in 1846, and Fulton, in 1850. Most of these have, in turn, been divided and subdivided into other counties, until the area of the original Bedford is now occupied by some eighteen counties, or parts of counties. Some of these counties bear the names of our former townships—for instance Armstrong; and Allegheny county was once Pitt township in Bedford county.

The first actual settlement here, of which we have any note, was by one Ray, who had built three cabins on the site of Bedford, in or before 1751. His place was known as Raystown, and an early stockade defense was called "Fort at Raystown." The south fork of the Juniata was designated "Raystown Branch," as the north fork was known as the "Frankstown Branch." Ray would now be termed a squatter. He had no legal claim to the land. One Garrett Pendergrass had a deed for it from the Indians before Ray's occupancy. This and other early deeds are in our Recorder's office still, and are greater curiosities than we sometimes go to the circus to see. I have no doubt our amiable Recorder will take pleasure in showing them to you. One of the signatures was impressed on my memory at first sight. It is an eccentric picture of an animal that, translated, reads "Hecat." Many of that name still live hereabouts, and inherit the olden-time proclivities for savage encounter and the terrible warhoop. Ray's name does not appear, either in history or legend, after 1751. Pendergrass, finding his lands occupied, obtained another deed from the Indians for the ground where McKeesport now stands, and finding this also occupied, he received a third deed for a half circular tract facing one mile on the Allegheny river, and which is now Allegheny city. As late as 1881, part of it was in litigation by his descendants, before the U. S. courts at Pittsburgh, at which I happened to be, as jurymen at the time.

The early courts at Bedford were not held, as now, by "men learned in the law" but by "Justices of our Lord the King," nominated by the Governor and authorized by commissioners under the broad seal of the Province. The first "Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery" was held April 16, 1771, before William Proctor, Jr., Robert Cluggage, Robert Hanna, George Wilson, William Lochery and William McConnell, Esquires. The other justices appointed and commissioned by George III, with these, were John Frazer, Arthur St. Clair, Bernard Dougherty, William Crawford, James Milligan, Thomas Gist, Dorsey Pentecost, Alexander McKee and George Woods. Judges Woods and Dougherty were professional surveyors; as to the others, I know not. Every intelligent school boy can tell of Arthur St. Clair, one of America's great generals of revolutionary and ante-revolutionary times. He was our Arthur St. Clair, one of our first judges and the first prothonotary, recorder, clerk of court and register of wills, appointed thereto by Governor Penn.

William Proctor was the first sheriff. The first commissioners were Robert Hanna, Dorsey Pentecost and John Stevenson.

The first grand jurors were James Anderson, Charles Cessna, James McCashlin, Thomas Kenton, Allen Rose, George Milliken, John Moore, Robert Culbertson, George Funk, John Huff, Richard Wolf, Valentine Shadacer, Thomas Hay, Samuel Drennin, Edward Rose, Samuel Skinner, William Parker, Christopher Miller, Thomas Croyal, Adam Sam, Jacob Fisher and David Rinard. Many of these names you recognize.

The first attorney sworn into this court was Robert Magraw, Justice Dougherty making the motion for want of a lawyer to make it. Afterward, at the same court, Mr. Magraw making the motion, Andrew Ross, Philip Pendleton, Robert Galbraith, David Sample and James Wilson were admitted; and at the ensuing term, July 16, same year,

LITERATURE

In this column will be published weekly one or more selections of poetry or prose, selected from many sources and from best authors.

Brotherhood

God, what a world if men in street and mart
Felt that same kinship of the human heart
Which makes them in the face of flame and flood
Rise to the meaning of true brotherhood!

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Strongheart

One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph;
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake.

—Robert Browning.

New Life Again

The winter skies were very gray and chill;
Across the fields the hills looked dull and drear;
But now a fresh new green lights up
each hill,
And we begin to feel that summer's near.

The flowers are dead that last year
gave their bloom,
But seeds are swelling in the garden
bed;
The tulip bursts its bands and leaves
its tomb,
New beauty rests upon its glowing head.

Some voices that we loved we hear
no more,
Some hands we clasped we long to touch in vain;
But very near, perhaps,—yea, just beyond our door,
The friends we mourn put on new life again.

—E. H. Chase.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Make Tour of Part of Bedford County.

Hopewell, Pa., April 26, 1907.
The tour of the Bedford County Sabbath School Association closed with the district convention held in the Everett Reformed church, Wednesday, April 24. The Pennsylvania Sunday School Association with which the county association is affiliated sent state workers, Mrs. L. C. Denise and Rev. Charles F. Irwin, to assist in the tour. Almost all the southwestern and part of the eastern part of the county were covered by the tour, conventions being held in the following places:

Bedford, M. E. church, Monday, April 15; Hyndman, Reformed church, Tuesday, April 16; Schellsburg, Presbyterian church, Wednesday, April 17; Imertown, Reformed church, Thursday, April 18; Cessna, Reformed church, Friday, April 19; Saxton, Reformed and M. E. church, Sunday, April 21; Loysburg, M. E. church, Monday, April 22; Hopewell, M. E. church, Tuesday, April 23; Everett, Reformed church, Wednesday, April 24.

Thus it will be seen that while a great part of the county has been covered by this tour there is still a larger part yet to cover which we hope to do in the near future. A number of these conventions, district organizations were effected with a full corps of officers. Subjects dealing with the various phases of S. S. work were discussed and a number of new departments were introduced into the various schools.

Cradle and teachers' training classes were organized, and preparations are being made to qualify for the county teachers' training alumni banquet, which will take place at the county convention which will convene at Schellsburg, June 13 and 14.

Much interest in the county association has been aroused and the county officers feel that the association is in a flourishing condition. We would urge on all schools in the county, irrespective of denomination or size, to plan to be represented at the county convention in June, and to send to Mr. J. A. Cuppett, New Paris, Pa., a full statistical report of their schools.

that the best and quickest results are obtained by advertising. Use The Gazette as a medium.

David Espy, David Grier and George Brent were admitted. We will here say in parenthesis that David Espy was the son-in-law of George Woods and his daughter, Elizabeth, became the wife of Dr. John Anderson and was the mother of the late Dr. George Woods Anderson and Espy Lyon Anderson.

Among the names recommended by the court to the governor, for license as tavern-keepers, were Margaret Frazer, George Funk and Frederick Nawgel, residents of Bedford town. It will be interesting to know that the court fixed in these licenses a list of tavern rates as follows:

One bowl of West India rum toddy	1 s 6 d.
One bowl of Continental or other rum	1 s
One bowl of Whiskey toddy	1 s.
Each to have 1 1/2 pint of liquor.
Beer or cider per quart	6 d.
1 1/2 pint rum	6 d.
1 1/2 pint whiskey	6 d.
Dinner, supper and breakfast, each	1 s.
Horse and hay per night	6 d.

The above to be the rates of tavern expenses and to be set up to public view in every tavern in the county of Bedford.

Done by the court,
BERNARD DOUGHERTY, Pres."

BROADBRIM'S BUDGET

Number One Thousand Five Hundred Sixty-Two.

New York, April 30.—In the administration of a government where thousands are employed, it is not to be wondered at that some unfaithful servants should be found. We have a law which closes the liquor saloons at 1 o'clock in the morning. Among the new Justices of the Peace recently appointed by the Mayor was one who thought he would like to know how the sumptuary laws were obeyed before taking his place on the bench, so, just before midnight he started out on an exploring expedition, and, only a few blocks from the police precinct, he found a liquor saloon open; he entered and ordered a glass of whiskey, with which he was served; he asked the barkeeper if they were not afraid to sell liquor after hours; "Oh, no," he replied, "we have that fixed all right." A policeman to whom the city pays $1,200 a year to enforce our laws, stood guard at the door to protect the law-breaker. In a precinct where there are houses of ill-fame, saloons and gambling-hells, the profits must be enormous and it requires a good sturdy virtue to resist such temptations. Say there are fifty of these forbidden places in a precinct; ten gambling-hells, taxed $100 a month for police protection; ten houses of evil-repute, the same; thirty saloons, at $50 each; this gives a divide of over $3,000 a month, and, knowing this, no wonder that General Bingham keeps shifting men about and reducing inspectors to patrolmen. There are thousands of as honest men on the police force as can be found in any profession in the world; in times when mob-violence threatened the city's peace, they have been tried in the balance and not found wanting.

Every day and every hour the question of transit and population becomes more and more serious. A few years ago we thought that our Subway would afford the city complete accommodation; but instead of relief, life and limb were never placed in such jeopardy as now. During the rush-hours, when people are going to or returning from work, the population becomes a wild, howling mob, and it seems like a miracle that hundreds are not killed or maimed every day. We have subway tunnels laid out that will cost three hundred millions of dollars; this will bring New York city up to its borrowing capacity. At the present time the contractors and city's Board of Audit are far apart in their estimates, but they must come to an understanding very soon or we will have to borrow an earthquake or a Kansas cyclone to thin out our population.

Broadbrim.

Edward Bookhammer

Edward Bookhammer of Altoona died at the Blair County Home on Tuesday, April 30, after a long illness from tuberculosis, aged 30 years. He was unmarried and leaves one sister, who resides in Altoona. The body was prepared for burial and sent to Hopewell; this county, where interment was made.

New Buena Vista

The New York World

THIRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great Presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made its arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening through out the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are a Republican or Democrat and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

THE THIRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Gazette together for one year for $2.20.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.

VISITS WILLIAMSPORT

Stopping With Former Bedford County Landlord.

Williamsport, Pa., April 28, 1907. Editor Gazette, Well, I went to Sunday school and church this morning; think of that! The minister, Rev. Runkle, came into the church with a smile on his face and it was a pleasant smile. His sermon was one that I enjoyed very much. The church was crowded and the Sunday school had one hundred and thirty-five in attendance. Many of these were grown men and women. I notice in all my travels where I get to Sunday school that very many of the attendants are persons more than twenty-one.

This is a beautiful city of 50,000; it is supplied with the best of water gathered into two large reservoirs from mountain streams. This city's valuation is not near as much according to the actual valuation as the present valuation as made by the late assessor of Bedford; it is just about as much as in some of your small boroughs. Why, John T. Miller, formerly of Mann's Choice, tells me that his school tax here on his forty thousand dollar hotel is but little more than it was at Mann's Choice.

This is the same John T. Miller who for a dozen years furnished the hungry with fried chicken and waffles at the Metropolitan Hotel at Mann's Choice; what luck some people fall into? He sold that, came here and bought the City Hotel, a nice four-story brick hotel with 59 beds. "This is in the center of city about midway between the P. R. and P. & E. depots. I am told that it cost much more to build the house than he paid for house, furniture and all. 'Tis true the house needed repairs which he has made, spending up to this time some $8,000 in repairs and new things. Everything is up-to-date now, and in their designing of new things his splendid wife has had a hand that shows for itself. The last finished appliance is the novel arrangements for bath tubs. One simply presses the button, when a closet door opens and the same mysterious hand pushes a bath tub into your room; touch another button with the letter "S" on it and a nice glass of sling is ushered into the room for you. 'Tis the most complete and novel modern operand that you can think of. His hotel is at the corner of the city and is engaged beforehand. Next door is the family theater with two shows a day and time enough between the acts to go to Miller's for a beer. This is what helps swell his bar receipts to a hundred dollars a day. Then the Hughes Rye that he dispenses is so appetizing that some folks walk a long ways out of the road to get this.

Mr. Miller has been offered forty-five thousand dollars for his hotel. Every reader knows this same John T. Miller, one of the staunchest Democrats that ever voted in Bedford county.

There is also a Dr. Blackburn here from Bedford county. I have not met him and for services I don't want to, as I would always sooner go to the banker than the doctor, as it don't cost so much and tastes better.

The schools and colleges here are a credit to a city of the first class. The banks are still receiving deposits, showing that their vaults are not full yet. The teachers have suspended whipping unruly children in school, because—now guess.

Miss Grace Miller, fifteen years old, is learning to ride a bike. She is a very beautiful girl and in a couple years will be a great heart-masher. People here are delighted that Bedford is going to have an Old Home Week and will be on hand to join with old friends in making the town ring with joy, making more noise than Jack Sansom's horn did when he rode postillion seventy years ago.

M. F. Heckerman.

I. O. O. F. Anniversary

Six Mile Run Lodge No. 588, I. O. O. F., held an anniversary meeting at their Lodge Room Friday night, April 26. There was a large attendance of Odd Fellows and Rebekah Degree members. The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Harris of Altoona, Rev. Peters of the M. E. Church, Rev. McGuire of the Church of God and John H. Jordan, Esq., of Bedford. After the exercises in the Lodge Room a splendid banquet was served in the room adjoining. The Six Mile Run Lodge owns the building in which it meets and has its Lodge Room handsomely furnished, while its banquet room is furnished with cooking paraphernalia, tables and chairs, and the room, which is the same size as the Lodge Room, accommodates a large number of people.

Herman Miller of Mann's Choice brought his employee, William Zeigler, home on Saturday and spent part of Sunday in our town.

George Smith is having a fresh coat of paint put on his house which adds greatly to the appearance of his new house. Sherman Hoover of Fishertown is doing the work.

Sherman Smith has the foundation dug for a new house which he intends to erect in the near future.

Robert Reininger and his assistants, George Winegardner and Pierre Hersberger, commenced work on Monday on Irvin Miller's new house which he is erecting. He also intends building a barn.

Chester Reininger and Miss Mae Trout attended summer school at Pleasantville. H. E. F.

ODD FELLOWS CELEBRATE

Eighty-Eighth Anniversary of the Founding of the Order in America.

Cove Lodge, Woodbury; Amicitia Lodge, Loysburg, and Chippewa Rebekah Lodge, Woodbury, united in celebrating the 88th anniversary of the birth of the order, Friday evening of last week.

The meeting was held in the M. E. church, Loysburg, and the music was furnished by a choir and the Woodbury band. G. W. Karns presided and addresses were made at the afternoon session by O. W. Smith, editor of the Bedford Inquirer, and Rev. J. H. Diehl of St. Clairsville. At the evening session the anniversary address was made by Rev. H. K. Ash.

A chicken and waffle supper was served by the ladies of the M. E. church. The meeting was attended by a delegation from Everett and by J. Reed Irvine and W. S. Lysinger of Bedford.

A Nation of Cripples Rheumatism Beyond Control

The Only Hope to Rheumatic Sufferers Is Uric-O Treatment.

If rheumatism continues to spread as it has in the past few years, it would seem as though we would before long become a nation of cripples. The terrible destructiveness of this disease is apparent on every side of us. Almost nine out of ten of the cripples one meets that their affliction brought on by Rheumatism. How many thousands more there are that are hopelessly bed-ridden and whom we never see. Rheumatism, from the very nature of the disease, can never cure itself and if neglected is bound to grow worse rather than better. If you ever have any twinges of Rheumatism go to your druggist and get a bottle of Uric-O, the wonderful new Rheumatic Specific. It will cure you and it is the only treatment in the world that will cure you permanently and thoroughly. Uric-O cures by its direct action on the muscles, blood and kidneys. It seeks out the poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acid and drives it from the system and it is only a treatment of such a nature that will ever cure Rheumatism. Liniments and plaster only serve to drive it from one spot to another. They never cure Rheumatism, because it is primarily a blood disease, and until the blood is cleared from the poison, a cure cannot take place.

There never was a case of Rheumatism that Uric-O could not cure and you should not put off taking it. You can test Uric-O free of charge if you wish. Just cut out this advertisement and send it to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., together with your name and the name of your druggist, and state that you have never used Uric-O and would like to try it. They will give you free, through your druggist, a 75 cent bottle, which you can test and try to your own satisfaction. Uric-O is sold and personally recommended in Bedford by F. W. Jordan. May 3-2t.

Saxton

May 1—Jacob Zook removed his family to Altoona last week.

POWHATAN GUARDS

Police Department Strong and Well Organized.

Norfolk, Va.—The Jamestown Exposition police department consists of 100 men with headquarters on the grounds. Captain H. W. Carpenter of the United States Marine Corps, specially assigned, is commandant and Captain E. C. Currey, formerly of the army, with a record in the Philippines, is adjutant. The force includes a secret service, a detective bureau and a uniformed patrol. The guard is part foot, part mounted and part assigned to water front service, the latter being provided with launches. The guard is under military discipline and its uniform is of military character, gray with red trimmings, including shoulder straps of red and stripes down the seams of the trousers of the same color. The coats are of the blouse cut and belt with sword is worn, the mounted men having the cavalry sabre, and wear riding breeches and puttees. Great slouch hats are worn. The jurisdiction of the exposition extends a mile without the grounds under act of the Virginia legislature and offenders are taken before magistrates especially appointed and holding court within the grounds, one by day, another at night. Cases brought before them will receive immediate attention. The Powhatan Guard will enforce the regulations of the exposition company, preserve peace and protect property and persons. The detective force has been drawn from the forces of many cities and the leading detective agencies and is thoroughly familiar with the world of so-called "crookdom." Criminals of all sorts are known to them and will not be permitted to remain on the grounds nor in the vicinity of Norfolk or contiguous cities.

Trains and boats will be watched at the exposition end, and in addition it will be difficult for any criminal known to the police of any of the larger cities to get well started on his way for the exposition vicinity. Thus a crook leaving New York on a steamer bound for Tidewater Virginia would be almost sure to be "spotted" before the vessel sailed. All of the towns near Norfolk and all the resorts to which the crowds will flock are similarly protected.

The secret service will be quite a separate branch of the police and its duties will include "tabs" on exposition matters generally, as well as upon the police force itself and its manner of performing its duties.

THE TIMBER REGION

Life in a Lumber Camp Strenuous and Interesting.

Every great industry has its picturesque side. In many of the precious metals the scene is often laid where the snow-capped peaks of mountains form a landscape of grandeur and beauty—the mine itself is strangely weird; the orchard and the farm appeal to every lover of nature, whether it be in the budding spring, luxuriant summer or mellowing fall. The fisherfolk of the coasts are wonderfully interesting with their quaint customs and tales of the sea; the life of the railroad man is replete with adventure and daring. Almost every line of human endeavor and struggle has been made familiar to the layman through entertaining newspaper or magazine articles.

But there is one great industry about which little has been written; an industry which has reached stupendous proportions in the Pacific northwest; an industry to which we owe, in a large degree, the comforts and luxuries of present-day civilization. It is lumbering. Nowhere can lumbering be studied to better advantage in all its innumerable phases than near Aberdeen, Wash., a city whose ships carry more lumber to the various ports of this and other continents than do the vessels of any other city in America. Within a few miles of Aberdeen may be found some of the largest logging camps in all the world. So easy of access are they that in many cases the visitor may make the trip, both going and returning, in but a single day.

A half hour's ride on the train to the logging road, an additional journey of three or four miles accomplished probably in the cab of the logging engine, and the visitor has reached the camp. Little portable houses form a tiny village surrounded by fir, spruce, cedar and hemlock, with seemingly accidental little patches of alder whose silvery bark is in vivid contrast to the somber tones of the evergreens. The subtle attraction of the woods is seldom expressed by the men who live and pass in the forest; they may not even be conscious of it individually, yet its existence is proven by the fact that many of them would follow no other avocation.

Picturesque in environment, the phraseology peculiar to the industry is doubly so. It is the "cruiser" whose trained eye and judgment estimate the amount of standing timber in a given area. Two "fallers" bring to earth forest giants which often measure a hundred and twenty-five and even a hundred and fifty feet to the first limb, and whose diameter of six and eight feet is not considered unusual. When the saw has bitten its way through the sturdy strength gained by centuries of robust growth, the "fallers" resolute cry "timber" echoes through the woods, and men whose tasks lie dangerously near hasten to safety, for the fall of one of these magnificent trees, with its hundred tons of crashing, thundering weight, makes the very hills tremble, while the sound is like the report of a great cannon.

The trunk being notched at proper intervals, the "buckers" cut it into thirty or forty foot lengths, the "swampers" prepare the path along which it is to be pulled to the landing below. "Chunk buckers" remove roots and stumps from this avenue, while beveling the edges of the log so that it will travel easily, is done by the "snipers." The "rigging crew" fastens tackle and a wire cable to the tens tackle and a wire cable to the log, and a "yarding engine" furnishes the power which drags the log to the "skidding road," a sort of rough trough made of logs laid down the hillside, and down this chute the log is shot to the landing to be loaded on the logging train. Sometimes three, sometimes five or more logs make up a car, and in some instances a single immense log will ride in solitary state. It may contain from six to ten thousand feet of lumber and be worth from $70 to $125.

The concentric rings of the stump or log are indicative of the tree's age, and counting them is no easy matter. Now wide, now narrow, one is impressed with the fact that forests as well as nations have their eras of plenty and prosperity, their epochs of adverse condition. There is a pathetic side to seeing this product of hundreds of years destroyed in a few brief moments, the soft honeylike pitch welling from the tree as it lies prostrate upon the ground. It almost seems to come with the expiring pulsations of a great heart.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease and the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces, and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for $1 stamp. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Strenuous is a word particularly appropriate in describing the life of a lumber camp, and it is popularly supposed that only the most substantial food finds a place on the camp table. Instead of this there is intense rivalry between neighboring camps as to which will offer most tempting fare, or in the vernacular of the men, "feed" best. Capable cooks in kitchens possessing every modern convenience prepare in addition to savory meats and vegetables of every seasonable variety, delicious biscuit and rolls, cookies, dumplings, cakes and pies. Every man has his place at table and is so sensitive as to his rights in this regard that he would probably quit the camp were a stranger to inadvertently occupy his seat. Meals are duties to the woodsmen, albeit exceedingly pleasant ones, and conversation is reserved for a more opportune occasion.

The fascination of life in a lumber camp is not to be really felt in the day's sojourn, an intimate comprehension of the men who lead isolated lives within its confines is not to be gained within a week or a fortnight, yet there is no more interesting experience awaiting the resident of other portions of the United States than a visit to the logging camps on Gray's Harbor, Wash., the heaviest timbered region in our country today. A. Decker.

DON'T DIE AT 45

Cure the Indigestion Which Is So Liable to Lead to Apoplexy.

People who suffer with headache, giddiness, palpitation, bad taste in the mouth, drowsiness, distress after eating, and any of the other distressing results of indigestion, are in serious danger. Their digestive organs cannot care for the food properly and hence the coats of the blood vessels in the brain get little nourishment, become brittle, and finally yield to the fierce blood pressure and one is then said to have a "stroke," be paralyzed, or die from apoplexy.

In all diseases of digestion and nutrition the prescription called Mi-o-na has proven itself of great value. It is relied upon today as a certainty to relieve the worst troubles of indigestion and make a complete cure. That Mi-o-na will cure the worst forms of indigestion, cancer excepted, and give quick relief in indigestion is proven by the guarantee of F. W. Jordan gives with every 50-cent box to refund the money unless Mi-o-na cures. A guarantee like this must inspire confidence. Apr 26-2t

An Interesting Article on the Jamestown Exposition.

Of the women's publications which come to our table "The Ladies' World" always seems to offer the most for the reader. The stories are good, the special articles timely, the departments practical, the illustrations high class and the price moderate. The May number just to hand opens with a paper treating Jamestown and the Exposition in a very unusual and interesting way. A new serial by Hugh Pendexter, with illustrations by Pitney, opens attractively, and The Princess and the Plowman comes to a conclusion. There is short fiction by Elliott Flower and Elizabeth McCracken, in the opera series Gustav Kobbe tells the story of Aida, and music lovers will delight in the article on Lohvonne, the pianist. The fashion department is full of hints for summer clothes, with appropriate patterns. There is a lesson remodeling the wardrobe, and the usual sensible helps in housekeeping, in the entertainment and care of children, in etiquette and the cultivation of good looks. If you do not know the magazine, get a copy and look it over. (New York) Fifty cents a year.)

Hurried meals, lack of exercise are the main causes of dyspepsia. A Rings Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal aids digestion, improves the appetite. Sold by Irvine's Drug Store.

One Way of Peace

To live within walled gardens, Once again to bound my life This side the distant Woodlands and blue hills; To know Neither the mystery of the river's source Nor where it widens to the open sea, To seek only the short beaten paths Where the dew dingles To cowslips after dawn. To find no new way out Upon the uplands, Never to measure Eternity's long ways Up to the distant stars, Never to know the meaning of the sun's fierce fires Except upon brown cheeks. Never to greet the rushing tumult of the storm With kindred tumult; Only to know the breath That shakes The orchard petals down Upon the low bent grass Or drives the shadows Of flecked clouds Across the sunny New mown meadow lands:— Has peace a surer price? —Paul Kester in the May McClure's

DISTURBED THE CONGREGATION

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by continually coughing is requested to buy a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. Ed. D. Heckerman.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Important to the Man or Woman Who Wants to Turn Dimes into Dollars.

Q. Why should I invest in a lot in Arlington Park?
A. Simply because if you want to make money it is an exceptional opportunity.

Q. What guarantee have I that it will make money?
A. Its proximity to McKeesport and Wilmerding and East Pittsburgh—the greatest manufacturing towns in the Pittsburgh district—makes it the best industrial real estate in the United States.

Q. In the United States?
A. Yes, in the entire country there is not a manufacturing district that equals Greater Pittsburgh and nowhere is realty enhancing so rapidly in value.

Q. You say industrial realty—why?
A. Industrial realty is land either in a manufacturing district or adjoining it and as the manufacturing industries enlarge they employ more help—the latter need homes—this creates a demand for the land and with the demand come increased values. In short, no realty has made so many fortunes as has industrial real estate.

Q. Well, what will enhance the value of Arlington Park?

A. Arlington Park adjoins Wilmerding, the home of the Westinghouse Airbrake company, and all the available building lots have been improved with houses. Arlington Park is but a short distance from East Pittsburgh and Turtle Creek, the homes of the Westinghouse electric company's plants, and in both these towns every building lot has been sold—in fact, of the 22,000 workmen employed in the Westinghouse plants over 15,000 of them are compelled to live miles away from their work simply because they cannot find homes near their work. Until Arlington Park was divided into lots these conditions existed.

Q. Then why do the workmen not buy these lots?

A. Many of them have already done so and are erecting homes—but there are many who, working all day, do not have the time to undertake the building of a home and are waiting for some one else to take this trouble. They will buy or rent but will not build.

Q. Why do you think they will buy or rent?

A. The history of the surrounding country proves it. There is not a vacant house in the district now. Every house being erected has buyers or tenants awaiting its completion. The man or woman who buys and builds is assured immediate returns, or if they hold their property the surrounding improvements will enhance the value of their property.

Q. Why do you not build yourselves?
A. We are building a number of houses—as many as our means will permit—but the demand is greater than we can supply.

Q. Again I ask, what proof have I of this?

A. Only a few years ago when the Westinghouse plants located in the Turtle Creek valley an acre of land in Wilmerding was readily purchased at less than $5,000. Today the major portion of the city is worth ten times that much per acre. In fact, six blocks away from Arlington Park acreage is held at from $10,000 to $25,000 for a 25-foot front lot, or from $150,000 to $200,000 per acre. You can buy an acre in Arlington Park for $800 up and we can show you letters from customers who have realized handsome profits upon their investment in Arlington.

Q. But how can one of moderate income take advantage of this opportunity?

A. You can buy an acre lot in Arlington Park on easy terms—$25 secures any lot and $3 up to $25 a month pays for it. If you will write for our booklet, which tells all about this money-making proposition, and how to get a free trip to Pittsburgh, we will send it free. Address, G. M. CYPHER & CO., McKeesport, Pa.

Q. Well, I can buy here any time?

A. That's a question. You may be able to buy later, but it is a fact that you will have to pay more. Those who act quick get the low prices as well as easy terms. As soon as speculators get the lots you will pay more and the terms will not be so easy. We advise you to reserve a lot by mail today.

SHORT TALKS BY

L. T. COOPER.

INTERNAL PARASITES.

Cooper's New Discovery has taught me many things. Not least of which is that parasites or tape worms as they are called are responsible for an immense amount of suffering.

NICK EMMERICK.

Thousands of these creatures have been brought to me by people who have taken the New Discovery and now know that an immense amount of supposed stomach trouble is caused in reality by one of these parasites. A man or woman may be afflicted in this manner for years and not realize the true cause of their suffering. When I first sold Cooper's New Discovery I did not know that the medicine would remove this trouble. I have since found that it invariably does so. The following letter is a fair sample of the symptoms as experienced by an individual thus affected:

"I was always tired. My stomach bloated and the slightest exertion made me sick, weak and dizzy. My appetite was variable and a good nights sleep was unknown to me. When I awoke in the mornings I had a bad taste in my mouth and a coated tongue. I heard of the wonderful benefits that were being derived from Cooper's New Discovery, and decided to try it."

"The horrible tape worm, sixty feet long that had been sapping my life away, passed from my system alive and squirming after I had taken three doses. Now I have a splendid appetite, every trace of stomach trouble has disappeared and my digestion is good. I sleep well and am gaining in strength every day." Nick Emmerick, 1344 Louis Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

What's in a Name

Perhaps you may have heard of the celebrated divine who could move a congregation to tears simply by repeating the word "Mesopotamia." It was in the sound. Some words have individuality of their own. You cannot twist "Mesopotamia" to mean anything but a sleepy, sun-kissed land. You could not, for instance, endow those soft vowel sounds with the rugged quality of another unmistakable word—Saskatchewan!

Sas-katch-e-wan! Spoken as though it came always from the full ridged chest of a tall red-man, thin in the flank, hard in the leg—spoken as though with the exhalation of lungs full of rugged northern air. What word in the glossary of rivers surpasses this in the virility of its sheer sound? It reeks of kinnikinnick and dried white fish and smoked breasts of wild geese and service berry and pemmican. You cannot avoid seeing dog sledges or help hearing the howl of wild fowl, or refrain from noting the blown breath of men running in the cold, when you hear the mere name, wild, mysterious, of this river, one of the trails of the young men. From "Sas-katch-e-wan," by Emerson Hough in The Outing Magazine for May.

Free samples of "Preventics" and a booklet on Colds will be gladly mailed you, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., simply to prove merit. Preventics are little Candy Cold Cure tablets. For a seated cold or LaGrippe, break it up safely and quickly with Preventics. Sold by all dealers.

Proper Time to Plow Land

The proper time to plow land is when it is just moist enough to break up mellow, neither wet enough to leave a slick surface where rubbed by the moldboard nor dry enough to break up in large clods, or, as the southern farmer puts it, when the soil has a good season in it. If continued rain follows wet plowing, little harm follows, but hot, dry winds would soon leave only a mass of unmanageable clods. In spring and midsummer plowing particularly it is of the utmost importance to run the harrow immediately after the plow. This prevents the formation of clods.—W. J. Spillman

Little Thoughts on Big Themes

Experience is the germ of power. The problem of civilization is to eliminate the parasite.

It is qualities that make a man great, and not knowledge. Calm, patient, persistent pressure wins. Violence is transient.

The man who consumes and wastes and does not produce is a burden like the grasshopper.

A workman thrives best by considering and working for the best interests of his employer.

Mother nature in giving out energy gives each man about an equal proportion—the difference is in the way you use it.

The alternating current gives power; only an obstructed current gives either heat or light; all things require differently.

The fact is that life lies in mutual service—any other course is merely existence. Those who do most for others enjoy most.

Mental work of a congenial kind is a great stimulus to bodily vigor—to think good thoughts, working them out like nuggets of gold, and then to coin them into words, is a splendid joy.—Elbert Hubbard in May Lippincott's.

Let me send you free, for Catarrh, just to prove merit, a Trial size Box of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. It is a snow white creamy, healing antiseptic balm. ## One of "Tom" Reed's Sharp Moves

In the May American Magazine Ida M. Tarbell tells of "Tom" Reed's first appearance in Congress as the inventor of ingenious rules. This was in 1883. After describing the particular clever rule which Reed devised during the great tariff fight of 1883 Miss Tarbell adds: "It was a rule which allowed the House to declare a disagreement but not an agreement. It allowed a majority to non-concur, but forbade it to concur! A New York Herald correspondent characterized Mr. Reed's rule perfectly when he declared that it realized the Irishman's dream of a gun which should fire so as to hit the object if it was a deer and miss it if it was a cow!"

For a cold or cough take Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It is BETTER than any other cough remedy because its laxative principle assures a healthy, copious action of the bowels and at the same time heals irritation of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes and allays inflammation of the mucous membrane. Contains Honey and Tar, pleasant to take. Children like it. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

We are pleased to announce that Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung troubles is not affected by the National Pure Food and Drug law as it contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and we recommend it as a safe remedy for children and adults. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Head and Heels

Mentality is marked on the heel. Only those with pronounced brain ability have lines there sharply seen. Others have them as mere markings. If there is a network of small lines upon the heel it means great versatility. People who draw, paint, play and dabble in the languages have many heel lines. A smooth surface of heel denotes a placid, nonworking brain.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is best for women and children. Its mild action and pleasant taste makes it preferable to violent purgatives, such as pills, tablets, etc. Get the booklet and a sample of Orino at Ed. D. Heckerman's.

The Bedford County Prospecting and Developing Company, of St. Clairsville, Pa., was organized for the purpose of testing for oil, gas and other minerals which U. S. Government surveyors have located in and near St. Clairsville, Pa.

Specimens of rocks have been tested, and the same truth brought out. It is the intention of the company to issue for sale 40,000 shares of stock at 10 cents per share, non-assessable to complete the work. Already more than 15,000 shares have been sold. Work will commence as soon as stock is all sold, and continue until oil or gas is struck in paying quantities. On May 9 there will be another meeting in the Band Hall at which time a constitution and by-laws will be adopted, also application will be made for a charter.

Do you know that 100 shares of stock in a well that runs 10 barrels daily will pay you monthly $18; 200 bbl. $36, 500 bbl. $90; 1,000 bbl. $180; 2,500 bbl. $450; 5,000 bbl. $900? Has this not been done in other fields, is there any reason why we cannot do the same or better?

Send applications for shares to the secretary or one of the following authorized agents:

J. H. Hafer, Bedford; H. W. Seegar, Cessna; Malachi Mock, Schellsburg; Edw. Cramer, Imier; J. S. Fetter, Salemville; R. W. Ickes, Alum Bank; H. L. Hull, Springhope; T. E. Berkhelmer, Fishertown; D. A. Claar, Queen; Bruce Croyle, Osterburg; H. E. Mason, President; A. S. Cobler, secretary.—[Adv.]

DIVORCE NOTICE

In the Court of Common Pleas of Bedford County, Pa. No. 1 of January T., 1907. In Divorce.

Ellen Nicewonger

vs.

Andrew Nicewonger.

To Andrew Nicewonger, Respondent, Sir:—Take notice that the libellant above named, Ellen Nicewonger, your wife, has made application to the Court to the above number and term, praying the said Court to grant an absolute divorce from you, her said husband, alleging as a ground for said divorce wilful and malicious desertion on your part from the 13th day of December, A. D. 1903, and absenting yourself without reasonable cause or excuse.

That the Court has appointed the undersigned Master to take the testimony, report the facts together with an opinion in regard to same, which said Master will sit for the purposes of his appointment in the Grand Jury Room of the Court House in the Borough of Bedford, Pa., on Monday, the 20th day of May, A. D. 1907, at 1 o'clock p. m., when and where you are requested to attend.
